GANDY RESIGNS; PAY TOO SMALL, IS REASON GIVEN TO WILEY JONES

Assistant Attorney General C. M. Gandy yesterday tendered his resignation to Attorney General Jones and will resume private practice with his former partner, Gene S. Cunningham, under the firm name Gandy and Cunningham which had been retained by Mr. Cunningham.

The duties of Mr. Gandy as assistant attorney general were in connection with the corporation commission. He hopes that his resignation may be accepted and a successor appointed in order that he may resume private practice not later than the first of next year.

Following is a copy of the letter of resignation:
Hon. Wiley E. Jones,
Attorney General of Arizona,
Phoenix, Arizona.
My Dear Mr. Jones:

Because of the inadequate salary and for other more personal reasons, I am compelled to relinquish my position as assistant attorney general and return to my private practice. I do this with regret for I have been deeply interested in my work as attorney for the Corporation commission and in my other official duties, and have enjoyed my sojourn with your official family.

This resignation will take effect at your earliest convenience, in any event not later than the end of next month. I shall hope by that time to have all pending cases submitted.

Thanking you for your many favors, I am

Sincerely yours,
CLYDE M. GANDY.

NEW TRANSFORMER WILL DOUBLE P. G. E. POWER IN PHOENIX

The electrical capacity of the Pacific Gas & Electric company is to be doubled. This became known yesterday following the issuance of a building permit for $2,520. This proposed house will contain a transformer of equal capacity to the present transformer, William C. Hornberger, the superintendent, stating that the company's business, due to the growth of the community, demanded this remarkable increase in facilities.

The new transformer house will be erected on the company's block, Harrison and Buchanan streets and First and Second avenues. It will be built of reinforced concrete and steel, two stories in height, 25 by 50 feet and 35 feet high.

The company in order to meet the demands made upon it through the rapid growth of the city is extending and enlarging upon its business, the management announced. A feature of this is seen in the installation, now nearing completion, of large electric cables from the plant east to the cotton gins. All the gins are working to capacity and there has been added to the cotton ginning field within the city limits the Martin gin and the McCall gin. These with the two older gins of the Southwest Cotton company and the Arizona Egyptian gins of the Atha people, draw heavily for power upon the Phoenix Gas & Electric company.

Gas Output Increased

Regarding gas the management states a new gas plant is being finished in order to meet the growing needs of the city, especially in the northern part, where the greatest amount of building is now being done. The gas generator capacity has been doubled, and new equipment, including scrubbers, exchangers and the like, have been installed.

On North Eleventh street there is being laid a six-inch gas main to take care of the large increase in gas consumption in that locality, due to growth. On Fifteenth avenue north of Jefferson, another six-inch gas main is being laid. It will extend north to Van Buren street.

The new transformer station will be of the latest design and equipment, said Mr. Hornberger.

Asked concerning the position of Phoenix due to a possible shortage of coal, he said that all the gas used in Phoenix is made from crude oil, and that therefore there could be no shortage here, so far as the gas company is concerned.

SOCIETY ARRANGES TO ATTEND ARIZONA CLUB BALL TONIGHT

Society will observe Thanksgiving with a brilliantly arranged ball given by the Arizona club at the Woman's club tonight.

The event, which has been planned along elaborate lines, will not only celebrate the holiday, but will mark the formal opening of the club's social season. The entertainment committee, of which Dr. Robert Brownfield is chairman, has laid special stress on the details which will be carefully carried out, it is said. The decorations will be most artistic, the choicest of autumn foliage and flowers being used by clever artists to produce an unusually beautiful effect.

The dance program has been planned by Dr. Brownfield and other members of the committee, which includes Donald Dunbar and H. W. Asbury, and the music will be furnished by a well known local orchestra.

It is believed that more than 100 couples will attend this evening's affair, which will be preceded by many smart dinners.

A friend is one who loves you in spite of your bragging.
